

PPG to collaborate on window shading technology

May 23, 2017, 10:37am EDT

INDUSTRIES & TAGS Manufacturing, Aviation

Pittsburgh-based PPG and French company are working together to expand applications for a technology that electronically dims windows for aircraft.

Vision Systems of Lyon, France, has developed an electronically dimmable window shading system that changes light instantly and transparently. PPG, a window and coatings manufacturer, also has similar technology but an announcement said PPG (NYSE: PPG) and Vision Systems will be working together on applications for aircraft.

Nicolas Laurent, left, Vision Systems Aeronautics sales director, and Brent Wright, PPG...

more

BUSINESS WIRE

"As a pioneer in the electrochromic window segment, PPG recognized the added value offered by Vision Systems to the standard dimmable film technology, especially with the interface that makes its system work," said Brent Wright, global business director for PPG's aerospace transparencies, in a statement.

Paul J. Gough is digital producer at the Pittsburgh Business Times, handles social media, and writes about breaking news. Contact him at pgough@btzjournals.com or 412-208-3827. You can also follow him on Twitter.